

A Complete Street

Sidewalks that connect to parks, public transportation, and schools; roads that include designated and protected bike lanes; and streets that accommodate all people, can help us safely be active and improve our quality of life.

People who live in neighborhoods that are safe and offer opportunities for walking, biking, and other physical activity, weigh less and are less likely to have heart disease.

